Kentucky IMPACT
100 Fair Oaks Lane 4W-C, Frankfort, Kentucky 40621-0001 (502) 564-4456 FAX 502-564-9010
Kentucky IMPACT serves those children who are the most severely emotionally disabled and in need of coordinated services among human service and education agencies. Through interagency collaboration, community-based services are individually coordinated for each child and his/her family. Each child has a service team which may include a parent, a social services worker, a mental health therapist, a school teacher, and a court worker. Key members of the team are the parents, who are represented at all levels of decision making and are considered "full" partners in the collaborative effort. There are several unique features of Kentucky IMPACT. While IMPACT is not an entitlement program, there is state legislation which authorizes a State Interagency Council to set parameters for the standards and outcomes developed by the 18 Regional Interagency Councils. Each regional council is allocated a pool of funds which may be used, at the local Council's discretion, to support the services given to children and families. A yearly evaluation is made to measure progress on the standards and outcomes set by each regional Council. A continuing challenge for this collaborative process is to allow for localized decisionmaking while assuring consistency and accountability statewide.

Social Security benefits are based on a worker's primary insurance amount (PIA), which is related by law to the average indexed monthly earnings (AIME) on which Social Security contributions have been paid. The full PIA is payable to a retired worker who becomes entitled to benefits at age 65 and to an entitled disabled worker at any age. Spouses and children of retired or disabled workers and survivors of deceased workers receive set proportions of the PIA subject to a family maximum amount. A worker who becomes so disabled as to be unable to work may be eligible for a monthly disability benefit. Benefits continue until it is determined that the individual is no longer disabled. When a disabled-worker beneficiary reaches age 65, the disability benefit becomes a retired-worker benefit.

http://dmhmrs.chr.state.ky.us/sa
The Cabinet for Health & Family Services, Department for Behavioral Health, Developmental & Intellectual Disabilities has contracts for the provision of community-based non-medical services for the prevention and treatment of substance abuse via a network of regional Comprehensive Care Centers and their affiliate programs. These regional programs offer a wide array of services and supports to individuals and families that are high risk for developing substance abuse problems. The chief delivery systems for prevention and early intervention services are the regional prevention centers. For persons with treatment needs, the Comprehensive Care Centers offer an array of services that include residential and outpatient options. Eligibility: Any person that is considered at risk for developing a substance abuse related problem is eligible for substance abuse prevention services. Persons that have been identified as "misusing" drugs and/or alcohol are eligible for early intervention programs (I.e. student assistance programs, driving under the influence program, or employee assistance programs.). However, these specialized services for high risk populations are not uniformly available in all regions. Persons that are determined to have a diagnosis of substance abuse or substance dependence are eligible for treatment. The type and duration of treatment depends on the severity of the substance abuse problem and on the availability of treatment resources.
